

Let's talk with the artist Susumu Shingu!

Dialogue Event on 26th

An event to talk with Susumu Shingu, 87, a world-renowned artist, will be held at Arimafuji Park (Ninji, Sanda) on April 26.

The event will be held at Susumu Shingu WIND MUSEUM in Arimafuji Park (Ninji, Sanda) on the 26th. The event will be an opportunity for free discussion, without a theme, and is scheduled to be held about once a month from now on.

Shingu is known for his works that are powered by natural forces such as wind and water, and his works are installed around the world, including skyscrapers in New York, the National Opera Theater in Greece, a port in Italy, and the luxury brand “Hermes” in Ginza, Tokyo.

Susumu Shingu talking about his creation

The event will be held at Ninji, Sanda

Wind Museum, where 12 of Shingu's works are on display.

He is still active in several projects, and from October of last year to February of this year, an exhibition of his works was held at Fubon Art Museum in Taiwan. Twelve of Shingu's wind-powered works are installed in the WIND MUSEUM. Visitors to the museum have expressed a desire to meet the artist, and as an artist living in Sanda, he offers a monthly meeting. Shingu says, “I would like to talk about things from my childhood and things I want to convey outside of my artwork, rather than formal content.

A fee of 1,000 yen is required for university students and above.
